In After Years.

When Mary's lamb had obtained his growth,
He became cross and contrary;
One day he chased her up a tree—
And then the Lamb had Mary.

—Fayette Journal.

But Mary too had grown a streak,
She butchered that same ram,
And ate him up in but a week,
Then Mary had the Lamb.

The Fayette Journal.

The Fayette Journal is one of the best and most influential Republican papers in the State. Its editor Hon. Geo. C. McIntosh is very prominent in West Virginia politics and has never been accused of any action that was not dictated by honest convictions. The nomination of Judge Bennett as the Republican candidate for circuit judge does not wake much enthusiasm in his breast.

It seems to develop a peculiar sort of humor in him. He has copied some of the most uncomplimentary statements about Judge Bennett without comment, and for no other reason, no doubt, than to let Judge Bennett know what high crimes and misdemeanors he is accused of. Last week a friend of Bennett's wrote a long article to the Journal in answer to a scathing article denouncing Judge Bennett, which appeared in the Hinton News, a Republican paper of Hinton. The charges made were very serious to appear in the public prints. The Journal printed the letter on its editorial page and under the same head four still more scathing denunciations of Judge Bennett and seemed to nutely appeal to Judge Bennett's apologist to answer those also in his able and effective manner. When they are answered no doubt there will be another batch ready and so on all summer.

At the Senatorial Convention for the Ninth Senatorial District, composed of the counties of Fayette, Greenbrier, Nicholas and Clay, Thomas H. Dennis, of the Greenbrier Independent, was nominated as one of the nominees for State Senator. This is an honor well deserved by Brother Dennis, than whom there is no more doughty warrior in the rank of the Democracy and his presence in the legislature will be no uncertain factor in checking the tendency toward corruption in high places which has become so alarmingly prevalent in West Virginia politics.

W. VA. OPENS BUILDING.

Dedication Ceremonies at World's Fair—Gov. White Accepts His State's Handsome Structure.

St. Louis, Mo.—The imposing West Virginia State building at the World's Fair was dedicated Wednesday afternoon with appropriate ceremonies in which Gov. A. B. White and other prominent West Virginians participated. Nearly a thousand guests assembled for the occasion, many of them being ladies from the western and southern states.

The exercises began with an innovation by Rev. Dr. D. B. Parinton, of Morgantown, West Virginia, president of the State University. Vice chairman Fred Paul Grosscup, of the state commission, presided and introduced President D. R. Francis of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, who delivered a brief address, complimenting West Virginia and the state commission upon the good work done in erecting such a handsome structure at the World's Fair.

The West Virginia building was then delivered by Col. Grosscup in behalf of the commission, to Gov. White, who accepted it for the state, in a short address in which the good work of the commission was highly commended.

The state flag was presented to the West Virginia commission by Hon. John T. McGraw, a prominent attorney of the state, who delivered an able address, giving a careful historical review of the growth and progress of West Virginia. The eloquent address was filled with patriotic sentiments and contained much of national interest and beautiful works of praise for the greatest of all World's Fairs, which the speaker regarded as a blessing to all mankind and an educator for the entire world.

Stuart F. Reed of Parkersburg, W. Va., who came especially to attend the dedication, was the next speaker. He called attention to the many men of prominence who have hailed from West Virginia, whose sons have distinguished themselves in all professions and callings at home and abroad. One of West Virginia's sons reorganized an army under the shadows of the Pyramids of Egypt; another is in charge of the meteorological bureau of the Argentine republic, another gave to the United States its methods of studying mathematics; another occupies the chair of political economy in the University of Japan.

West Virginia's early history was interestingly presented by O. S. McKinney, a prominent lawyer of Fairmount, W. Va.

Prof. Thomas C. Miller, state superintendent of public schools, spoke of West Virginia as an educational center and of the World's Fair as the great educator of the age.

A. J. Wilkinson, of Grafton, in a short impromptu address, told of the glories of West Virginia and the wonders of the World's Fair.

A. L. Straus, a prominent Parkersburg attorney, made a few impromptu remarks full of happy hits.

The West Virginia building occupies a prominent place on elevated ground among the other state building and is generally regarded as one of the handsomest state offices on the World's Fair grounds. West Virginia has interesting and attractive exhibits in some of the big World's Fair palaces, that in the Palace of Horticulture being unusually fine, with one of the most perfect fruit displays at the Fair. In the Palace of Education West Virginia has another attractive exhibit and in the Palace of Mines and Metallurgy the mineral portion of the state has a creditable exhibit of coal and other products of the mines.

Do You Know Why?

Second Examination.

The second examination for teachers will be held at Marlinton, W. Va., July 21 and 22, 1904, beginning at seven o'clock a. m. J. B. GRIMES, Co., Supt.

Dunmore.

The festival at Dunmore Saturday night was well represented and a fine time was had, $48 was taken in.

The picnic at Arboreale was good, until late in the evening some of the boys got a little merry go round.

Durbin was a little quiet on the 4th. C. B. Swecker was there that day taking orders for monuments.

The Sunday school picnic Tuesday at the Warwick sugar grove was well represented, and a general good time prevailed among the kids.

Quite a bit of building is going on in Durbin and Bartow.

There would be a good deal of travel on the roads between Green Bank and Durbin but they are impossible for automobiles.

Mr. B. F. Jackson, W. H. Cakley and wife spent several days in Randolph Co.

Griff Rivercome and lady spent a few days in town.

The hack is kept busy between Dunmore and Forrest.

Undertaker Swecker furnished two burial outfits Monday, one for Adam Wooddell, who died Sunday night—at his home near Green Bank at an advanced age.

The other for Mr. John Grogg who died at her home near Boyer after a short illness. The gentlemen were both good citizens and well known. Mr. Wooddell leaves one son, B. F. E. Wooddell. Mr. Grogg leaves a large family.

Childrens day at Green Bank next Sunday.

Every One who has furniture to sell in town have been blowing for the last two months about the stock of furniture they carry and about the goodness and cheapness of their furniture.

We did not say a word about our furniture and still we sold as much and probable more as any one of the balance.

To those who contemplate buying furniture we want to say that we don't claim to have the largest stock of Furniture in town, as we have no more room to spare for furniture, but we carry a stock of furniture such as Bed Room Suits, separate Dressers, Wash Stands, Iron and Wooden Beds, Spring Mattresses, Kitchen and Dining Chairs, Oak and Reed Rockers, Baby Chairs, Refrigerators, Dining, Kitchen and Parlor Tables, Pillows, Bolsters, etc., at than you can buy the same goods elsewhere.

Remember we don't meet prices, we make them, we don't match others' values, we beat them.
